Three Thousand Tons of Shale.
Morris Bros., of Canton, Mass., made the largest sale of "The Rising Sun Stove Polish" during the year 1922 they have ever made since they began its manufacture, thirty years ago. These figures give some idea of the great popularity and increasing sale of "The Rising Sun Stove Polish."

AFTER THE GRIP
"I was very weak and run down and did not gain strength, like so many after that prostrating disease. Seeing Hood's Sarsaparilla highly recommended, I began to take it, and was more than pleased with the way it built me up. I think it has made me better than before I was sick. I have also been delighted with HOOD'S PILLS, and always prefer them to any other kind now. They do not grip or weaken. I am glad to recommend two such fine preparations."

La Grippe Baffled!
The After Effects Cured

READ WHAT MR. BILGER SAYS: "I had the GRIPPE in the first place; caught cold and grew worse. It lodged in my KIDNEYS and LIVER, and Oh! such pain and misery in my back and legs. I was all run down and discouraged. I tried everything without benefit. Physicians gave me up to die. I commenced to use SWAMP-ROOT, and before the first bottle was gone, I felt better, and to-day am just as well and strong as ever. SWAMP-ROOT saved my life. It is the greatest remedy in the world." INHERITED SCROFULA.

Cured my little boy of hereditary Scrofula. He appeared all over his face. For a year I had given up all hope of his recovery, when finally I was induced to use Scott's Emulsion. A few bottles cured him, and the symptoms of the disease remain. Mrs. T. L. MATHERS, Matherville, Miss.

Proper Ventilation of Rooms.
There are various contrivances for ventilating rooms, all of which are more or less expensive, and a large majority of them quite worthless. The best way to ventilate a room is by means of open fires. However, open fires are not sufficiently warm in winter, and there are few houses that are provided with the ideal heating arrangement of modified steam heat with grates. Lacking this, and, indeed, under any circumstances, a sleeping room or a sitting room should be, so to put it, washed out with pure air every day. Whatever the temperature outside, every window should be opened and the outer air allowed to pour through it from ten to twenty minutes each day. As a rule rooms are kept too warm. No room should be kept heated beyond a temperature of sixty-eight degrees. The system of a person living in a super-heated atmosphere becomes so vitiated that it shivers at the slightest change and takes cold on the least provocation.—New York Telegram.

SCIENCE AT HOME.
Simple Experiments for the Family Circle.
Carve out of a raw potato a cylinder of the diameter of the upper portion of a lamp chimney of good size and about an inch tall. Then with a quill toothpick pierce in this cylinder four cylindrical holes oblique with relation to the axis of the large cylinder. Our picture shows you the place and the direction of the holes. Then take the chimney and close the largest end with the potato thus prepared.
At the top of the lamp chimney fit

on another potato cylinder, or a cork pierced with cylindrical holes like those below, and this time each hole must have each axis vertical and not oblique. Then through a vertical hole in the center, pass a string to suspend the apparatus. Catch the string below the cork by and passing a match through it. Attach the upper end of the string to a nail in the ceiling, or to the chandelier which hangs above your center table. Meantime put a lamp shade over the glass chimney and force it down to the largest part; then suspend all around the shade little horses and riders out of paper.

Place a bowl on the table, directly under the lamp chimney, and pour water into it through the chimney's upper end. This will set the apparatus in motion at once. The water passes through the holes in the cork at the upper end, fills the tube and runs out at the oblique orifices in the potato. The whole thing then begins to turn with great rapidity, and you have a hydraulic racing match before you. The little horses and riders will move around merrily.

When you pull apart two panes of glass which were stuck together by syrup or copying ink you will notice that the viscous liquid is spread out over each pane, so as to form very delicate and artistic abstractions, like the impressions of fossil algae. You will be surprised at the number of beautiful and graceful designs which you can obtain by this pressure of two panes together over any sticky substance. Our picture gives the facsimile of a design obtained with printer's ink. An impression can readily be taken from these designs on the glass, which may be varied at will by moving the panes in various directions.

The Oldest Person in the World.
"Probably the oldest person living upon the earth is a member of the tribe of Mayo or White Indians inhabiting the Sierra Madre Mountains in Mexico," said Don Carlos Pietrie, a resident of Durango. "The party in question is a woman, and it is known positively that she is more than 135 years old. How much more is purely problematical. She claims to be 160, but that transcends belief. What her original name was I do not know, she having long ago adopted that of Mary. She is a full blood Mayo, has blue eyes and light hair, and should you meet her anywhere but in the heart of the Sierra Madre you would suppose her a Swede. The Mayos very much resemble the Swedes, and have a tradition that their ancestors came from a land of snow and ice, far beyond the big water. 'Old Mary,' as she is called, is bent almost double. Her skin has shriveled until it looks like wrinkled parchment, and she has lost the use of her hands and feet. During the last year her eyesight, hitherto remarkably good, has failed her and her hearing has become impaired. She still possesses the full use of her tongue, however, and is a voluble talker. It was from her that I gleaned much of my knowledge of the traditions of the Mayos, which I propose soon to publish. I have secured an excellent portrait of old Mary, together with copies of entries in the books of early Catholic missionaries, showing that she was of marriageable age when the thirteen American Colonies seceded from Great Britain."—Globe-Democrat.

The Vatican Vintage.
Between 3,000 and 4,000 litres of wine is made every year from grapes grown in the gardens of the Vatican. This wine is used almost exclusively in administering the sacraments at mass. The Pope also assists at the harvesting, and this is one of his annual occupations to which he looks forward with great pleasure. Herebefore his Holiness has every year, in October, found amusement in shooting certain kinds of small birds which are plentiful in the gardens, but this year this pastime was discontinued, owing to the fact that last year several French journalists, half jokingly, half seriously, said that it was beneath the dignity of so illustrious an old man as the Pope to hunt birds, to say nothing of being rough on the birds.
